Overview:

The tragic incident of 9/11, recent violence and turmoil in many Muslim lands, and not-so-thoughtful responses of Muslim intellectuals on modern-day issues have raised many questions in the minds of sincere Muslims. In a traditional society, it is a tradition that is accorded centrality, but in today's world, reason plays a central role in society. The rational mind of this modern age is asking:

- “If Islam is the religion of peace, then why is terrorism associated with Islam?”
- “If Quran gives equal status to men and women, then why are Muslim women oppressed in many Muslim societies worldwide, and the husband is allowed to beat his wife?”
- “How can a religion of mercy not allow a Muslim to pet a dog?”
- “If God has created all human beings, then why people of the LGBTQ community are not acceptable in a Muslim society?”
- “If science explains everything, what do I need religion for?”
- “Can Islam respond to the challenges faced in the contemporary world?”
- “Is Islam even compatible with the modern world?”

This course is designed as an attempt to answer these and similar questions raised in modern minds in the light of the Quran, Sunnah, and the rich and long tradition of Islamic scholarship. Contrary to the common belief, Islam has provided fundamental guiding principles related to different aspects of a Muslim individual and society and left the details of practical application to the human faculty of jurisprudence so that different societies can apply the guiding principles of Shariah according to time and place.

Objective:

This course's main objective is to survey various contemporary issues and understand Islam's position on them. The foundational knowledge built-in Levels 7 and 8 will be applied in this level first to appreciate the problem and then understand Islam's approach to addressing it. Along the way, this course will also attempt to clarify some of the misunderstandings associated with Islam and present the right perspective on such topics.

Delivery Method:

This course will be taught through various methods suitable for this age group. This includes weekly lectures, group discussions, multiple Q&A sessions, home assignments, and independent reading of other reference material. In addition to the lecture slide, students will be encouraged to read the handouts given to them or other reference material available for reading to discuss and probe deeper questions regarding the subject matter. Appropriate discussion forum(s) will be created to enrich the course content encouraging students to discuss relevant topics in the forum to enhance their understanding. Students can also bring in their questions for discussion in these forums.

Assessment:

Students will randomly be assessed on what they have learned after a few lectures through short quizzes, assignments, or projects.

Course Outline:

The following list comprises the suggested topics that will be covered in this course. Additional topics may be added based on the interest of the students. The discussion forum(s), reference reading material, and Q&A sessions will be added to the lesson plan or outline. These topics are not arranged by week, and some topics may take multiple sessions to cover the topic fully.

Note: A weekly lesson plan or outline will be created based on these topics. The weekly lessons will incorporate practical aspects of the course, homework, and reference reading exercises.*
